

Although we still cannot believe that he didn't come home, we suddenly have to say goodbye to our loving, funny, goofy father, big brudder and newfound uncle

When people sometimes look at me
I often wonder what they see

Do they see me?
Or do they see what they could be
If they could be free
To be like me, you see?

As the years go by
And the days grow shorter
They can look back and say
Yes, I had it all in order

You had a good life,
Safe and sane
But in the end, the picture still remains, implanted Forever branded in your brain
That day you saw your fantasy riding gently thru the rain
